Confidentiality Principles

These principles apply to information provided through Wildlife Health Australia (WHA)

1. These principles apply to information other than that already clearly in the public domain. This information may be provided at WHA meetings or teleconferences, in correspondence or verbally, circulated to WHA members by email or mail or available through the WHA electronic Wildlife Health Information System (eWHIS).
2. Information made available to WHA members is provided on the basis that it may assist in the management of diseases with wildlife as part of their ecology that may impact upon Australia's trade, human health and/or biodiversity, and is intended only for that purpose.
3. Ownership of the information for any other purpose remains with the individual or organisation reporting the information.
4. Unless it is given to WHA members with other specific restrictions, such information may be passed on to other relevant staff within each members' organisation or related organisations, provided
 - the source of information (i.e. WHA teleconference, etc) is cited, and
 - the following disclaimer is attached to the information:

"The following information is CONFIDENTIAL and is intended for use only with respect to the management of diseases with wildlife as part of their ecology that may impact upon Australia's trade, human health and/or biodiversity".¹

5. In particular, information must not be given to the media or used in academic or other publications without the specific and written approval of the original source (owner) of the information.
6. Information must not be used for commercial purposes.
7. When reporting or submitting information to WHA:

WHA members reporting information to WHA should be alert to information that may identify individuals or small communities, especially when there may be some stigma or other adverse consequences associated with such reports. Identifying information should only be provided when necessary to protect public health and / or where the individual has provided consent.

WHA is an association incorporated under the Associations Incorporation Act (2009), as such it is required to manage any personal information as required by the Australian Privacy Principles in the Privacy Act 1988. Please see the WHA Privacy Policy for further information.

I wish to apply for membership for Wildlife Health Australia. I have been provided with the Constitution, Privacy Policy, and Confidentiality Principles, and agree to abide by the rules stipulated within all of these documents

- (2) has the right to elect person(s) to the Management Committee pursuant to clause 14(1)(a) of the WHA Constitution.

Privacy Information:

The Public Officer of WHA must establish and maintain a register of members of Wildlife Health Australia specifying the name, postal address and principal place of business of each member, the date on which the person became a member, the class of membership, and the contact details of the member's representatives (for Organisational or Funding Members). This register must be open for inspection, free of charge, to any member of WHA.

WHA abides by the Privacy Act 1988 and the Australian Privacy Principles. The WHA Privacy Policy is available on our website, at <https://www.wildlifehealthaustralia.com.au/PrivacyPolicyConfidentialityPrinciples.aspx>.

Liability Disclaimer:

The liability of a voting member of Wildlife Health Australia to contribute towards the payment of the debts and liabilities of Wildlife Health Australia or the costs, charges and expenses should Wildlife Health Australia cease to operate is limited to $1. Members who are not voting members are not required to contribute.

Please note: Further information on membership can be found within the WHA Constitution. All fees, other than for funding members, are set at zero.

The Wildlife Health Australia Constitution, the Privacy Policy, and the Confidentiality Principles are available on our website at www.wildlifehealthaustralia.com.au. For any further information, or to request a copy of any of these documents, please call 02 9960 6333
